Applicant's election of the species of Figs. 4-5 in the reply filed on 2 March 2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claims 8-11 stand withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 2 March 2006.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, and 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Twardowsky. Twardowsky shows a pressure regulator with a main valve 5, connected to a flexible diaphragm 12 by a connecting rod 3 that has a deformed circular cross section (Fig. 3) that passes through a circular communicating hole 3. Cover 19 is seen as the bonnet, holding an adjustable bias spring 15 which biases the valve open. Regarding claim 7, note spring 7.

Claims 2-3 and 5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shrode shows a similar regulator with a flange 36 at the end of connecting rod 32, but with no recessed portion. Johnson shows a valve with a relatively small cut out area 84 in a valve head to provide a restricted bypass.
